THE MARSHAL ACQUITTED.

The Man Who Was Wanted Here Had a Bad Record.

The Rochepot Commercial has the following concerning the acquittal of Marshal Long, who shot and killed Whittington, a man who was wanted here for forgery:

Marshal Long received a letter from the city marshal at Sedalia on the 7th day of September, notifying him to arrest one D. Whittington, who was wanted at that city on charge of forgery. Later he received a postal card with description of the man, and on the 9th, Long and Mr. Gibson discovered their man at work with the culvert crew on the M., K. & E. road near town. A telegram was sent to Sedalia notifying the authorities that the accused man was there, and immediate orders came for them to hold him. Long arrested the man and placed him in the calaboose on Sunday. The next day afternoon Whittington desired the marshal to accompany him to the camp for his clothing, which he reluctantly consented to do, taking George Peacher and W. C. Jacobs along with him. They got the clothing and started to return, and when coming through a gate from Edwards' pasture into the main road, they met the culvert gang, consisting of eight men and three wagons. The foreman, Mike Quinn, was leaning on the gate, which he opened, and after letting the prisoner pass, closed it again, telling him to run. The marshal forced the gate open, and as he did so was surrounded by the laborers. He pushed through them and called upon Whittington to stop, but no attention was paid to the summons. He attempted again to halt the prisoner, firing two random shots in the air, but his man kept running. Marshal Long then fired the deadly shot. The ball struck Whittington in the back, passing on through his heart. He fell forward with the exclamation "O, Lord, you've shot me!" He died shortly afterwards and Long gave himself up immediately. He appeared before Esq. Geo. Edwards and was released on $500 bond until the following Thursday when his examination took place and his exoneration announced.

Every man in New Franklin went on the bond, evidencing the high standing of Marshal Long in that community, who greatly regrets the unfortunate happening. Coroner W. H. Collins summoned the following jury for the inquest: W. O. Cox, J. C. Heath, W. T. Bowman, John Boggs, Peter McKinzie and Enoch Crews. The verdict was that the deceased came to his death at the hands of Wm. Long, who was justified in the killing.

The evidence at the examination showed that Whittington was a bad man, having served a term in the penitentiary from Callaway county for horse stealing. Three weeks ago he cashed a check in his own name on the Home Savings bank at Fulton, without having a dollar on deposit, and J. W. Tucker, of that town, was the loser. Such has been the dishonest career of the deceased, that public sympathy will shed few tears of regret over his dishonored grave.

Breaking the Sabbath.

A crowd of young hoodlums congregated at the new Hoffman building Saturday night and yesterday and proceeded to make things lively around there. They broke a patent hoister and tore up things in general, besides keeping up a horrible din all the day. The best thing that can be done to put a stop to such things is to report the matter to the police at once and give them a chance to put these young vandals behind the bars. If every citizen that notices any disturbance would notify Marshal De Long, there would soon be no cause for complaint.

Fell Down a Stairway.

Mrs. Gerd Miller, the wife of a prominent farmer and stock dealer of Benton county, fell down a stairway at Cole Camp Saturday. She was picked up insensible and taken to a neighboring residence. Dr. S. K. Crawford was summoned and on examination he found that she had broken both her arms, dislocated her left shoulder and bruised her head and face severely.

Sedalia's Aurora.

Messrs. J. W. and Frank McConnell and J. J. Frey have just made a lucky strike at Aurora, Mo. A deep lead was struck at 191 feet in the Florence L shaft, and the deposit was followed by the drill to the depth of 205 feet, when drilling was discontinued. This shows a face of fourteen feet of lead-bearing rock.

A stock company, the members of which will be the three above named gentlemen, will be organized at once. The capital stock of the company will be $25,000, and one of the stockholders, Mr. Frank McConnell, will have charge of the work.

Judge Sinnett Ill.

Word was received in this city yesterday of the serious illness of Judge Sinnett at the home of his brother in Granville, Ohio. Judge Sinnett has been unwell for some time, and has lost about forty pounds in the past month.

A DEMOCRAT reporter saw Mr. Bert Leake, a brother-in-law of Judge Sinnett, this morning. He said that "judging from the message received yesterday we fear that there is no hopes for him. His son in New Hampshire has been telegraphed for, and that would not have been done unless he was very low. His liver is the cause of his sickness, and as he is getting well along in years, we fear for his life."

The many friends of Mr. Sinnett will be sorry to hear of his illness, and will unite with the DEMOCRAT in hoping for his speedy recovery.

Real Estate Transfers.

Phillips, a residence corner of Thirteenth and Osage to T. T. Gorrell, until recently a prominent farmer of Thornleigh neighborhood. Consideration $1,625.

J. F. Kennedy to Harrison White, lot 5 in Peter Meyer's addition. $625.

Mackey-McGhee.

At the residence of the bride's parents, 232 West Pettis street, at 10 a. m., yesterday, by the Rev. A. H. Stephens, Mr. F. W. Mackey, superintendent of the telephone company, and Miss Rosie McGhee were made man and wife.

Immediately after the ceremony the groom and bride boarded the train for St. Louis and Chicago and will return the latter part of this week when they will be at home to their friends on West Fourth street.

Died.

F. R. Trullinger, who has been very low with dropsy for the last two months, died last night near Smithton.

He was a member of Amity Lodge, No. 69, A. O. U. W. of this city and will be buried from the hall room in the Cassidy building on Ohio street at 1 o'clock, sharp, Wednesday. The various lodges are requested to turn out as well as the friends of the deceased.

Police Court.

Several drunks and trespassers were up before Judge Rauck this morning.

Chas. Johnson was fined $5 for being intoxicated. Wood Haggerty was allowed a continuance on the same charge, until Sept. 28th.

Ed. Haggerty, Chas. Coulter and W. Daily were fined $10 each for trespassing, and sent below.

Shipped Some Fine Mules.

Messrs. Hinsdale and Menefee shipped this morning to Woolfart & Co., of St. Louis, a carload of the finest mules that ever left this market, one pair alone selling for $600. It is said that they are beauties, and will be placed on exhibition at the St. Louis fair and possibly other fairs also.

Will Travel.

Fred Phipps has accepted a position with the Greely-Burnham Grocery Co. of St. Louis and will represent them in this section in the future. Mr. Phipps is a good salesman, a genial gentleman and one well acquainted in this part of the country. Success to you, Fred.

Gave Up the Child.

Mrs. Scow sent word to Mrs. Killian that she could have Maud Franklin's little girl if she would send for it. Mrs. Killian at once went after the little one and it is now domiciled at her home.

Fine Specimens.

N. H. Gentry shipped eight fine Berkshire pigs Saturday afternoon to points in Kansas and New Mexico. They were very fine specimens of that breed of hogs.

The candy sales at Seicher's today was simply immense, which again demonstrates the fact that it pays to advertise in the DEMOCRAT.

HE LICKED A PIRATE.

Senator Vest Tells an Amusing Story of a Kentuckian's Prowess.

From the St. Louis Chronicle.

"I had a friend who once licked the pirate king, Lafitte," said Senator George Graham Vest at the Southern. "He didn't know it was the old buccanneer of the raging main, or my regard for truth compels me to admit my friend would have looked for somebody else to lick. My friend's name was Russell—Captain John Russell, a great strapping Kentuckian, who has been gathered to his fathers and left a large and influential connection in Kentucky. Lafitte, you know, was the Claude Duval of the Mexican gulf, who made his home on Galveston island, where a prosperous city has sprung up, and who made it a rule to scuttle a ship and cut a number of throats every morning before breakfast. I might here accidentally remark that he did this with such persistent regularity during our scrimmage with England in 1812 as to not only earn that priceless boon, American citizenship, but also complete absolution from all the sins of his piratical career. But to get to my story: Captain Russell, while on a visit to New Orleans somewhere back in the 30s, betook his giant frame to a French ball one night. The maddening whirl of the dance, aggravated by tantalizing glances from the flashing, sensuous eyes of the voluptuous creole women, had well nigh set my friend wild. His senses were intoxicated by the perfumed atmospheres of the ballroom, the bursts of melody from the orchestra and the rippling laughter of femininity. He was fairly floating through the mazes of the waltz, buoyed up by the heaving bosom of his partner, when his dream of unspeakable happiness was rudely broken by a vigorous bump. That he had collided with somebody, and that somebody had deliberately planned the collision for no other purpose than to wreck his rapturous happiness was evident to him from the jar of the bump and the fact that there was obviously no excuse for the collision. After he had succeeded in pulling himself together, so to speak, he cast about him to discover the contumacious person who had caused his trouble. He was not long long in finding out, for the swaggering gait and leering countenance of a dark browed specimen of humanity of the masculine gender proclaimed him the wilful author of my friend's grievous discomfort. Captain Russell was not the man to hesitate for the infinitesimal part of a second in such an emergency. Two strides of his giant legs carried him to the side of the ruffian. Without even so much as asking if he were the offending party the Kentuckian caught him by the scruff of the neck and seat of the pants, and, lifting him into the air until the contortions of his body and the wriggling of his arms and legs reminded one of the antics of a tarantula hung by a thread, he carried him to the front door of the ballroom and literally pitched him down the long flight of stone steps. To say that this act caused a panic doesn't half describe it. The women screamed and huddled together in one corner like frightened chickens. The men ran pell mell from the room. Even the orchestra ceased playing and the musicians dashed into another room and closed the door behind him. The ball room was left to Russell and the hundred or more hysterical females. It was several minutes before he could comprehend the situation, and when he learned that he had just bodily fired from the scene of revelry Lafitte, the pirate and terror of the southern seas, he expected nothing more nor less than a renewal of hostilities on a some more dangerous basis. But Lafitte didn't show himself in the ball room again that night. In fact, the Kentuckian's hardihood so completely cowed him that he is said to have entirely disappeared from New Orleans for a long while, and when he did return he was as mild a mannered man as one would wish to see."

Death of Miss King.

Miss Hattie King, who has been visiting Mrs. Mary Brumfield for the past month, died at the home of the latter on North Washington avenue, Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock of typhoid fever.

She was 20 years of age, and was beloved by all who knew her. Her sweet disposition and her patience in the hour of trial causes her to be spoken of in terms of endearment by all her friends.

The remains will be shipped to her home in Hamilton, Green county, Kansas, this afternoon.

Refused the Call.

Rev. J. S. Myers received a call quite recently from the Christian church at Memphis, Tenn., at an increased salary. He communicated the fact to the board of officers but they decided that they had better increase his salary here and endeavor to get him to remain. This was not a very hard thing to do, as Mr. Myers likes Sedalia very much and prefers to remain with piety and patriotism, all of which is worthy of emulation by other churches.

A Small Fire.

The house of John Gibney, East Saline street, caught fire just before noon and an alarm was turned in. The fire companies responded promptly and managed to save half the building.

A Wreck.

Two freight trains were wrecked at Pleasant Green Saturday night several cars were derailed and one engine badly damaged. No one of the train men were injured.

One Release.

Not an A. P. A.

To the Editor of the Democrat.

Allow me space in your paper to say that I have heard it rumored on the streets that I am a member of a society known as the A. P. A. I have this to say: Any person who says that I am a member of the A. P. A. is an unscrupulous liar and the truth is not in him. I will convince him that I am not an A. P. A. if he tells me I am. The circulator of this slander is a more colossal liar than the man who says all the railroad men are going to vote for Bill Warner. Yours, MONT CARNES.

In Honor of Columbus.

Official Paper of the City of Sedalia.

MY CHOICE IS

The EVENING DEMOCRAT.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Patrons of the EVENING DEMOCRAT will confer a favor upon the management by promptly reporting any irregularity in delivery or had condition of paper from improper handling.

CIRCULATION.

There are more Sedalia people regular readers of the EVENING DEMOCRAT than any other paper.

The democrats of Higginsville are trying to induce Senator Hill, of New York, to make them a speech during his visit to the west.

If the people of Pettis county are called upon to "re-imburse" Sheriff Smith for a lawsuit, who is to "re-imburse" him for investments in flying machines and such?

If cattle raising is as remunerative as the Gazette intimates, the people can best "remunerate" Sheriff Smith by permitting him to quietly follow that business.

EDWIN OSBORNE may or may not be crooked, but the Gazette was very careful to wait until he was out of town before it said much about his story concerning Warner.

SOME of Sedalia's progressive citizens are talking up the idea of having the paved streets of the city regularly swept. This would be a step in the direction of progress.

THE Bazoo appeared in a handsome new dress yesterday and though the paper is in its twenty-fourth year it looked as fresh and beautiful as an eighteen-year-old maiden.

SEDALIANS must do everything in their power to aid and encourage the building of the North and South railroad. The amount of money required is small indeed when compared with the importance of the enterprise.

THE purpose of a protective tariff is to discourage importations and stop foreign trade, and the republican contention that the McKinley bill has increased our commerce with other nations is really to assert that the measure is a failure.

SENATOR HILL said a capital thing, remarks an exchange, when he assured his hearers that the democratic party would be entirely content to let every workingman whose wages have been raised since the McKinley act was passed vote for the republican ticket if the republicans will let everyone whose wages have not been raised vote the democratic ticket. We are not sure, however, that any permission is necessary from the republican party to insure that result. All the intelligent workingmen whose wages have not been raised know that the republican party has deceived them and lied to them; and as the Australian law gives them an opportunity to vote as they please without subjecting themselves to discharge by republican employers, they are likely to vote the democratic ticket without asking permission of anybody.

OUR republican friends are mistaken when they imagine Missouri democrats are waving the bloody shirt; they are doing nothing of the kind; they are simply presenting, in all of its hideousness, the only record the republican party has made in this state. When Missouri republicans take up as their champion a man who was part and parcel of the radical machine and a beneficiary of radical rascality, they should not object that they are confronted by the record. It is hideous and humiliating to the better class of conservative republicans, but its hideousness is the calm record of the acts of their party, and the party managers are responsible for it. There are many republicans who do not endorse their party record and they now have a chance to rebuke it and set their faces toward the future. A republican vote against Warner is a vote against the old radical ring and in favor of a new departure on the part of the republicans of this state; it is a vote in favor of laying aside the old issues and the old managers and putting conscientious, earnest, respectable leaders in charge of the organization. Thousands of young republicans will cast their first vote in 1892 and they should begin by helping exorcise the evil spirit that has so long infested their political household. They can do this only by rebuking the Warner-Fletcher-Rodman regime, and their only chance to administer this rebuke is to vote against Warner.

If any democrat contemplated voting for a single republican candidate he should bear in mind the arrogance and intolerance with which the railroad organ has pursued City Collector Hart for daring to support the democratic ticket. No self-respecting democrat should be willing to lick the hand that smites him, nor to encourage a party that is ready to deny him freedom of political action.

THE circulation of the DEMOCRAT has grown even more rapidly than its managers expected, and the paper is now a welcome visitor in the homes of the best people in Sedalia. Friends of the paper can do it a real service by carefully inspecting its advertising columns and then giving their patronage to those who are there represented in a business way.

THE Globe-Democrat refers to the history of the republican party in this state as "exploded and worn-out issues." This record exploded and wore out the party that made it, and those who seek to revive the dead and buried party need not complain if the "dead and buried" record rises up like a hideous phantom to confound them.

THE gentlemen who are so confidently predicting the success of certain nominees on the republican county ticket were even more vehement last spring in predicting that Sedalia would go republican. But it did not, and their chance of carrying the county is five hundred votes less than their chance of carrying the city in April last.

THE Gazette roasts Osborne for "running away without paying his debts." What does that paper think of Major William Warner who for four years drew the salary of an office to which another man was elected, and never refunded the money? Warner has no right to throw stones at Osborne.

Do you read the advertisements in a newspaper? Of course you do. It is business with you. After you scan the advertising columns of the DEMOCRAT make a mental note of the business men represented. They think enough of your trade to ask for it through your favorite paper. Give it to them.

THIS is the season of the year when the wise business man gets everything in shape for the fall trade. One of the important things, not to be neglected, is the placing of an advertisement in the EVENING DEMOCRAT, the people's favorite paper.

It Always Draws.

There never was a time while P. T. Barnum lived that he could not draw a big crowd to see his show. Although it was he who coined the phrase "the American people like to be humbugged," he never took advantage in the weakness noticed in the average citizen of the United States—admitting that his words, which by virtue of common usage, have become common property and found a place in books of familiar quotations—to swindle the people. Barnum, the greatest showman the world has ever known, is dead and gone to his eternal rest and reward—for he was a good man—but his soul, like that of the hero of Harper's Ferry, goes marching on and his name has a charm about it that the people cannot resist, and draws, and will draw for years to come, like a magic wand. While thus speaking of the great showman who lives only in the memory of his countrymen, it is not the intention to detract in the least from the greatest of living showmen, Mr. Bailey. The fact that Mr. Bailey was for years the partner of P. T. Barnum is to say all that need be uttered for him in connection with the show business. Mr. Bailey is following in the footsteps of his late illustrious co-worker and is continuing to give the people everywhere the "greatest show on earth."

Death of Mr. Green.

J. D. Green, an old settler, who lives 17 miles southwest of this city, died Sunday morning of congestion of the brain. He was 65 years of age, and was one of the most influential farmers in that vicinity. Mr. Green left many friends to unite with his family in mourning his death.

The funeral services will be held at the house Wednesday and the interment will be made in the city cemetery.

Married at Napton.

Mr. J. H. H. Ellis and Laetta Andrews were married near Napton, Mo., Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. They arrived in this city on the Lexington branch and are visiting relatives on East Fourth street. The DEMOCRAT extends congratulations for a happy and prosperous future.

THE AIR BRAKE.

How the Invention Was Suggested to a Young Mechanic.

The air brake was a creature of George Westinghouse's youth. He had invented it before he was twenty-one years of age, and nearly a quarter of a century has passed since he saw his invention applied with success to a railway train. It has gone upon record as one of the great achievements.

The air brake was suggested to him on the inspiration of the moment, but that is not infrequently the beginning of great inventions. The suggestion of the divisibility of the electric current came to Edison one summer Sunday afternoon as he stood with Prof. Barker, of the university of Pennsylvania, watching a majestic piece of mechanism in operation at the Wallace works in Ansonia. The hint of the telephone was received in an instant almost by Bell, and the suggestion of the quadruplex telegraph came to Edison, as he once said, "between two thoughts." Ericsson received the hint of the screw propeller as he watched a fish swimming in a quiet pool, and Westinghouse had the first suggestion of the air brake while in a railway accident. His train was brought to a standstill, and they told him that a collision had occurred, and then it seemed to him that it should be possible to invent some mechanical appliance which would give an engineer command of a train such as he did not possess in the use of the throttle and the reversing lever. He turned the idea over in his mind, and, being skillful with his hands and having the capacity of the inventor, he constructed in a little while the first model of the air brake.

It happened that not long afterward he was in Chicago, and he met an inventor who thought that to him had come the inspiration for the perfect brake, and had such faith in this inspiration that he had worked it out and had secured patents for his design.

Westinghouse said: "I, too, have a scheme for a railway brake which will enable the engineer of a train to apply the brake from the engine to the last car, and will bring a train to a standstill in far less time than the hand brake now in use can do."

"Ah, but," the older inventor said, "you can not make a brake which will do those things without infringing upon my patents."

"I can and will," replied young Westinghouse, and within a year he had done his work and found himself a famous man.—N. Y. Sun.

THE ITALIAN ARMY.

Its Three Grand Divisions and Organization.

The royal Italian army, as at present organized, consists of the active or first-line army, the active militia ("Milizia Mobile"), and the local militia ("Milizia Territoriale"). The first-line army is composed of corps which are kept permanently in active service. The active militia is under arms in peace-time only during the period of instruction, and occasionally as the maintenance of public order and peace may require. In war-time it may be called out to co-operate with the permanent army in any military operations.

The local militia is likewise kept under arms in time of peace only temporarily, for the same purposes and under the same circumstances as the active militia. In time of war it has the special destination of defending the cities and fortified places of the kingdom; but in case of urgent need or foreign invasion it also may be called upon to aid in any field operation.

The organization of the permanent army is as follows:

I. A general staff of sixteen general officers in peace-time, taking charge of the different permanent commands. II. A staff consisting of a commanding general, who is the chief of the army staff, of two assistant generals, of sixty-eight colonels, lieutenant-colonels and majors, and of eighty-four captains. To these are to be added one hundred and twenty infantry captains, six clerks and several other assistants. III. The royal carabinieri. IV. The infantry. V. The cavalry. VI. The artillery. VII. The engineers; and lastly, the sanitary corps, the commissariat, the accountant and the veterinary corps.

The staffs of all the various arms and corps of the permanent army are in peace-time composed of officers in permanent service, whose number in each arm or corps and whose rank are determined by special law. However, the distribution of the officers among the different services of one and the same arm, or any one corps, may be changed every year through the Budget law.—Col. G. Golan, in Harper's Magazine.

—The forerunner of the modern newspaper was the written news-letter, by means of which the news was distributed in the cities of Europe. The first of these circulated in our own country was written by John Campbell, then postmaster of Boston, in 1700. The first newspaper printed in England was issued in 1619, under the title News Out of Holland, and in 1623 these occasional publications were issued weekly, under the title, News of the Present Week. In 1662 the Kingdom Intelligence appeared in London. The next to be issued was the London Gazette. The first London daily, published in 1709, was the Daily Courant. In the Public Advertiser, first printed in 1726, the celebrated "Letters of Junius" were published in 1726. In our own country the second newspaper published was the Boston Gazette (1719). The Boston Courant (from 1731-'37) was the third.

Gave What They Wanted.

Master Harry (a saucy young boarder at Breezy farm)—I say, Mr. Landlord, my papa wants to know if you expect to continue feeding us all on wind?

The Landlord—Well, your mamma said when she came here that it was principally for the air.—Judge.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—In a senseless panic in Ludlow street synagogues, crowded with Hebrew new year festival service attendants, four women were trampled to death this morning and nine persons, so far as known, more or less badly injured.

The panic was caused by some person yelling "fire" when a candle fell over on the pulpit and set fire to a bit of drapery. The congregation stampeded immediately.

Two other synagogues in the building were crowded and the worshippers heard the rush up stairs and joined in it. When the three streams of wildly desperate men and women met on the narrow stairs a struggle resulted in which the women went down under the rush of the frenzied men and life was trodden out of them.

The scene of the tragedy was the six-story tenement, 27 Ludlow street, with a synagogue on each one of the first, second and third floors, connected by narrow flights of stairs. It was in the place of worship on the third floor where the congregation Talmud Tora met that the panic began. This, like the others, is a plain room filled with wooden benches, a partition dividing it in the middle. In the partition is a door just the width of two boards, and through this those who were in front had to pass to get within sight of the stairs. At the partition door there was a jam then a crash and part of it gave way. The mass fell or rolled down the steep stairway.

More than 1,000 people in the building heard the rush and the crash overhead and with a common impulse ran for the stairs. At the second floor landing there is a sharp turn. There again the mass stuck for a moment, but worked loose presently and the two maddened masses met, the one coming down stairs, the other cutting in under it and trying to get ahead. A furious struggle ensued, men and women fighting with madness.

On the lower floor the mad mass brought up against the rush from the lower synagogue, the largest of all, and all came to a dead stop.

Some person in the street had enough presence of mind to send out a fire alarm which brought the department to the scene and the firemen succeeded in extricating the people from the blocked stairway.

When all had been cleared out four women lay dead on the stairs and nine more or less badly injured. These were sent to the Gouverneur hospital.

Some one threw the candle that had caused all the trouble out of the window and put an end to the fire.

Political Notes.

Ex-Gov. Gray, of Indiana is visiting Mr. Cleveland at Gray Gables.

Judge John Martin supports the fusion of Kansas populists and democrats.

Ex-Congressman Allen, of Michigan, spoke to 1,000 people in Topeka. He will speak at other points in the state.

W. J. Belknap, a straight out third party man, has been nominated for congress by the people's party of the Sixth Michigan district.

The socialistic labor party of New York city has nominated a full municipal ticket headed by Alexander Jonas, editor of the Volks-Zeitung, for mayor.

The Delaware prohibition state convention selected presidential electors by acclamation and nominated Lewis M. Price as representative in congress.

A personal letter received from ex-Senator Ingalls stated that he would make his first speech of the campaign in Topeka, October 1, speaking in the evening at the Grand opera house.

Congressman Sherman Hoar has written declining to allow his name to go before the democratic convention as a candidate for governor of Massachusetts. He says his duty to his family compels a complete withdrawal from politics.

The Fifth Michigan democrats have endorsed George F. Richardson, of Otawara county, the nominee of the people's party for congress. He is a farmer and was the author of the Richardson railroad taxation law in the last legislature.

Ex-Gov. Glick opened the campaign in the Sixth district at Atwood, Kan., for the fusion state and congressional ticket and created a sensation by ignoring the candidacy of Freeman, the regular democratic nominee, and advising the democrats to vote for William Baker, the people's party candidate.

The Stevens wing of the republican party of Alabama filled out their congressional electoral ticket and will make the fight in opposition to the recent fusion ticket and the democrats. Candidates for congress were named as follows: First district, R. J. Davidson (colored); Second, Charles O. Harris (colored); Third, Alfred H. Hendricks (colored); Sixth, W. Vaughn.

Shot By a Burglar.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 24.—William Rogers and C. F. Wiley were shot in an encounter with a burglar at Argentine. Rogers' wounds will likely result fatally, while Wiley's will not prove serious unless blood poison sets in. Rogers is shot through the groin and left leg and Wiley through the fleshy part of the right leg. William Woodson, a Santa Fe switchman, is locked up at the county jail in Kansas City, Kan., pending an investigation, as Wiley declared that he was the man who did the shooting.

Cholera Affecting the Paper Trade.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—At a meeting of paper manufacturers of the United States, who had become anxious about the shortage of the rags supply, caused by the cholera epidemic in Europe, here yesterday, it was the unanimous opinion that the price of book paper must advance rapidly and that the mills might even have to run on short time for lack of raw material. The meeting did not fix prices.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Sam Woolner & Bros., of Peoria, have organized a large corporation to build anti-trust distilleries. They say they mean fight.

AMUSEMENTS.

A Texas Steer.

Charles H. Hoyt, the acknowledged peer of comedy writers, and who has furnished the stage so many laugh provoking pieces, has never written anything quite so funny as "A Texas Steer," in which he satirizes politics as only Hoyt can do.

There never was a farce comedy production that could in any way compare with this famous skit, and when presented by such an admirable company as the one that will be seen here Monday night, Oct. 3rd, it furnishes an entertainment for which the play going public shall ever be grateful.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Rusk Announces the Extinguishment of Pleuro-Pneumonia.

NO CASE AT PRESENT EXISTING.

The Secretary Felicitates the Country on the Fact and Wants Europe to Take Notice Also—How the Distemper Was Stamped Out.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Secretary Rusk has issued the following declaration, the most important of all that have come from the department agricultural during his administration:

To Whom It May Concern:

Notice is hereby given that the quarantine heretofore existing in the counties of King and Queens, state of New York, and the counties of Essex and Hudson, state of New Jersey, for the suppression of contagious pleuro-pneumonia among cattle is this day removed.

The removal of the aforesaid quarantine completes the dissolving of all quarantines established by this department in the several counties of the United States for the suppression of the above named disease. No case of this disease has occurred in the state of Illinois, since December 29, 1887, a period of more than four years and eight months. No case has occurred in the state of Pennsylvania since September 29, 1888, a period of four years within a few days. No case has occurred in the state of Maryland since September 18, 1889, a period of three years. No case has occurred in the state of New York since April 30, 1891, a period of more than one year and four months. No case has occurred in the state of New Jersey since March 25, 1892, a period of six months, and no case has occurred in any other portion of the United States within the past two years. I do hereby officially declare that the United States is free from the disease known as contagious pleuro-pneumonia.

J. M. RUSK.

Speaking of the matter, which he said was of great importance to the cattle producers of the United States and of particular interest to the consuming nations of Europe, Secretary Rusk said:

"The official declaration of the freedom of the United States from the disease known as pleuro-pneumonia has been delayed until fully six months from the occurrence of the last case, on which occasion the animal found diseased as well as all others with which it had come in contact were purchased and slaughtered and the premises quarantined to all cattle from that date to the present time. Although in many cases four months is regarded as sufficient this extension of the period of complete immunity from four to six months was advised to satisfy the most conservative, and the grounds for the present declaration and its issue and the raising of quarantine in the United States for this disease is thoroughly justified by the facts.

"The inspection system advised by the department has been maintained in full force and efficiency in the eight districts heretofore infected during that period. The seaboard and frontier inspection and all necessary cattle quarantine will be strictly enforced, and there being no possibility of the occurrence of contagious pleuro-pneumonia save by its introduction from foreign ports, the country may congratulate itself upon the removal of all apprehension for its cattle on the score of contagious pleuro-pneumonia."

GILMORE DEAD.

Musical Circles Bereft of One of the Prominent Directors.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26.—Col. Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore, the world-renowned proprietor, manager and leader of the band bearing his name, died at his room at the Lindell hotel at 6:45 Saturday night of heart failure, due to indigestion. Gilmore had for several days been feeling ill and consulted a local physician, by whom he was treated for indigestion.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore was born near Dublin, Ireland, December 28, 1839. He connected himself with military bands at the age of 15, and after having been in Canada with an English band he went to Salem, where he led a brass band, after which he settled in Boston, Mass., where he organized "Gilmore's Band," with which he made an extensive tour. In 1861 he accompanied the Twenty-fourth Massachusetts regiment to the field, and in 1863 was placed in charge of all the bands in the department of Louisiana by Gen. Banks. He originated monster concerts in this city, and was the projector of the great "Peace Jubilee" held in Boston in 1869 and 1872, and published an account of the first at Boston in 1871.

Great Fire in Richmond.

RICHMOND, Mo., Sept. 26.—A disastrous fire occurred in this city yesterday morning, destroying the Wasson house, the largest hotel in the county, Dickinson's livery barn and J. C. Straube's residence. The fire started in the livery stable and soon spread, to the adjoining buildings and it was only by the most stubborn fight that it could be kept from the buildings across the street. The loss on the Wasson house is $20,000; insured for $10,000 on buildings and $3,000 on furniture. Dickinson's loss on the building and livery stock amounted to $18,000; insured for $2,500. In the stable two horses and two Jersey cows were burned. J. C. Straube's loss on his residence is $2,500; insured for $1,500.

The Peck Hearing Postponed.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Labor Commissioner Charles Peck and his stenographer, Elbert Rogers, were in court with their counsel, Edward J. Meegan, a quarter of an hour before the court convened. When work was begun the indictments against Peck and Rogers for feloniously opening and destroying public papers, were read by the district attorney. Both stood up and plead, when their counsel interrupted and asked for an adjournment until Tuesday. District Attorney Eaton said he wished to move the case to trial as speedily as possible, but it was finally agreed to put it over until next Wednesday.

Steamers in Trouble.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The steamer Edam, from Baltimore for Rotterdam, before reported ashore at Maasuis, was floated by discharging a portion of her cargo. The French bark Tranquaire, Capt. Coehery, from Cardiff, August 3, for Para, has been wrecked at Brazanca bank. Five of the crew were rescued and have arrived at Para. The captain and the other members of the crew were drowned.

SEVEN OR EIGHT KILLED.

A Freight Train Runs Into a Construction Train in Iowa.

MASON CITY, Ia., Sept. 26.—Seven dead and three injured is the result of a railroad wreck which occurred at New Hampton. For the number of lives lost and destruction of property, it is the worst accident that has occurred in the state in years.

A construction crew has been at work on the main line of the Chicago &amp; Great Western, placing rails, and had been ordered from Elma to work south on the road. About 10 o'clock they pulled into New Hampton on the main track and stopped to do some work.

The through freight was due at the latter point at 10:15. The freight was a little behind time and was running on orders not to stop at New Hampton. The road enters New Hampton from the north, but within sixty rods makes a turn going directly east.

This makes a bad curve in the road and it is rendered still worse by the grove, which entirely shuts out vision until within forty rods of the station.

The train was going at about the rate of thirty miles an hour. When within about ten rods of the caboose of the construction train the freight engineer saw the peril confronting him and telling his fireman to jump, he reversed the lever and both left the engine.

It was just in time to save their lives, for a moment later the engine smashed into the caboose, fairly splitting it in two. The caboose and three freight cars were piled up in a promiscuous mass. The engine was buried in three feet of earth.

In the caboose of the construction train were at least twelve persons and six of these were killed outright, one has since died, three are dangerously injured and two are unaccounted for. It is thought very probable that the latter are buried under the wreckage.

It is known positively that one more man is under the engine for a part of him can be seen, and it is thought that his body will be recovered soon.

A DREAFUL FIGHT.

Drunken Lumbermen Butcher Themselves in Michigan.

HARTFORD, Mich., Sept. 26.—Five drunken lumbermen had a desperate fight near Covert which resulted in the death of two of them.

Morris Casselman, George Casselman, J. Vanaman, C. Burton and L. Strouble having been paid off chipped in and bought a gallon of whisky, which they took to work with them. Drink followed drink until all thought of labor fled and the crowd became uproarious. During some rough skylarking one of the Casselmans became angered and struck at Burton. The row then became general and blows fell thick and fast.

Suddenly George Casselman whipped out a revolver. With a savage yell the others grasped their axes and commenced a fierce and bloody battle.

Morris Casselman sprang forward in defense of his brother, but too late. The keen ax wielded by one of the infuriated woodsmen descended and buried itself in the quivering flesh of George Casselman, who sank to the earth fatally wounded. Vanaman succeeded in inflicting a slight wound upon his opponent, but was in turn cut down and lay dying on the ground.

The sight of their terrible work sobered Burton and Strouble who threw away their axes and fled from the horrible scene.

Morris Casselman, as soon as his wounds would allow him, made his way to the cabin of a lumberman and made known the details of the fight. The sheriff was notified and at once set off in pursuit of the murderers who are supposed to be in hiding in the woods.

JACK IN CHURCH.

A Sailor Speaks Out in Meeting Much to the Preacher's Discomfit.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Rev. T. G. Milsted, pastor of Unity church, has for some time entertained the idea of erecting a bethel for the sailors who frequent this port. Sunday morning he made the matter a subject of earnest appeal to the members of his congregation. He dwelt at length upon the great need of such an institution in Chicago, and said:

"We must do something to save these men. They now have no place to go but to the dives and saloons. What wonder then that they are so disreputable."

"You're a liar," yelled a voice in the back of the church. "I'm a sailor, and we are not disreputable. We don't want any bethel home. What we want is more wages," and the toiler of the seas delivered to the congregation his personal opinion of the pastor, which was neither flattering nor couched in polite language.

All efforts to pacify him failed, and the profane, argumentative son of Neptune was hustled through the sacred portals by an array of ushers.

Pearl Buttons Booming.

VIENNA, Sept. 26.—Recent statistics have dispelled the fears that were entertained that the new American tariff would kill the mother of pearl industry in this country. Besides the fact that there are now no persons out of employment at the present time who earn their livelihood by this industry many Bohemian workers who emigrated to America and found matters connected with their calling in an unsatisfactory condition in that country have returned and are again working at their trade in Bohemia.

Lamar's Condition.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—A Philadelphia dispatch says: Justice L. Q. C. Lamar, of the United States supreme court, was stricken with paralysis on Wednesday in Washington, shortly after his return from the Highland house on the White mountains of New Hampshire. He is now getting better and was up and around his house in Washington yesterday. Mr. Lamar returned to Washington a week ago to attend to his official duties.

The body of Brice Hood was found in a creek bottom near Paris, Tex. He had been hunting and wounded himself, bleeding to death.

NARROW ESCAPES.

Many School Children Come Near Drowning at Chicago.

FORTUNATE PRESENCE OF MIND.

A Cry of Fire Almost Causes a Panic in New York—A Dangerous Panic on an Excursion Steamer Off Connecticut.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—One hundred and fifty school children and a score or more of men and women made a hasty exit from the old whale ship Progress at the State street bridge at 2 o'clock yesterday. A loaded sand scow in tow of the tug James H. Hay plunged into the port side of the old Arctic whaler, tearing a big hole in her hull at the water line. In twenty minutes the vessel careened outward and lay with her port guard rail almost even with the water's edge and the water poured into the hold below the cabin deck and filled it before getting between decks through the hatches. Otherwise, the 150 persons who were engaged in examining the curiosities in that portion of the vessel would have been thoroughly ducked and perhaps drowned.

There was no panic. Fully ten minutes elapsed between the time the sand scow struck the old vessel and the time she careened. Several employees of the owners of the old craft were aboard at the time and they had presence of mind enough to hasten the visitors ashore without frightening them. One crippled man who could not move rapidly and maintain a good equilibrium was carried down the gang plank to the dock by one of the sailors. All the other visitors walked off without accident before she turned on her side. When the sand scow struck her the shock was so great that every person on the vessel was frightened and began to investigate the cause of the trouble. The temporary steps from the dock to the vessel were broken by the shock. The old whaler was jammed up against the dock and on the rebound her forward end floated out about twenty feet, where she finally settled.

THE FIRE CRYING IDIOT AGAIN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Della Fox had just commenced to sing "A Pretty Girl" at the "Wang" matinee at the Broadway theater yesterday afternoon when some one shouted fire. Some coal smoke from the cellar had leaked up through the stage. The audience noticed it at once. Almost before the cry the audience rose to their feet ready to start for the door. The actors never lost their presence of mind for an instant. Della kept on with her song, though her voice was shaky for a moment. It was a narrow escape from a panic. As soon as the smoke disappeared the audience resumed their seats. At that moment the engines came rattling up to the theater. They went away again immediately. The play did not stop for an instant. Over 7000 people were in the theater at the time.

A PANIC AT SEA.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 26.—The steamer Rosedale with 1,000 excursionists on board collided with the steamer Uno off Shinnecock point. A big hole was stove in her starboard side, carrying away the lower cabin. The schooner's bowsprit was torn off. In a sinking condition the schooner was towed to Glen Cove.

A panic followed the collision and in the excitement several passengers on the Rosedale were injured. A seaman on the Uno was swept off and drowned. Robert Norton, a fireman on the Rosedale, was caught in the crush and so severely injured that he will die. Patrick Ellis was injured, perhaps fatally, as well as another man named Gregory. It was dark and foggy when the accident occurred.

FIGHT ON THE BORDERS.

Mexican Outlaws Have a Bloodless Battle With United States Troops.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 26.—Official information has reached headquarters of the military department of Texas of an affray on the lower Rio Grande border, above Rio Grande City, between a detachment of United States troops under command of Capt. Francis C. Hardie, of the Third cavalry, and a band of Mexican outlaws, who are believed to have organized for the purpose of carrying on smuggling operations and other depredations.

The skirmishers attacked them, but it resulted in no fatalities. Capt. Hardie has forwarded full particulars of the affray to Gen. Frank W. Heaton, department commander, by letter, which is expected to reach here tomorrow. A posse of deputy United States marshals was with the soldiers and participated in the fight.

Mrs. Harrison's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The weather was very oppressive in Washington Saturday night, particularly before midnight. Its effect was apparent on Mrs. Harrison, who was unusually restless and wakeful. This fact gave rise to a rumor, which was current last night, that there had been a change for the worse in her condition. This, however, Dr. Gardner, her physician, asserts, is not the case. He reports that Mrs. Harrison slept several hours during the day and took her usual amount of nourishment, and that she was as comfortable as usual at night and resting quietly.

No More Cholera.

QUARANTINE, S. I., Sept. 26.—The cholera outlook grows more satisfactory every day. There have not only been no new cases, but not even a suspect since Thursday last. All the patients are out of danger, and it looks very much as if the last name of any victim of the disease has been recorded.

GEN. HUSTED DEAD.

Death of the New York Republican Leader After Much Suffering.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Gen. James W. Husted died at his residence here at 7:30 o'clock last night. At his deathbed were gathered Dr. Marone, the attending physician, Mr. Husted's wife and sons, Thomas, William and J. W. Husted, Jr., and his two daughters, Mrs. Frederick Shedd and Miss Husted.

Gen. Husted was taken ill on his way to the republican convention in June last. He left New York with the republican delegates and before he arrived at Minneapolis he was taken down and it was feared he would expire before reaching his destination. As soon as he was taken ill, some of those aboard the train administered to him a dose of medicine, and it is said that it was an overdose and caused the illness from which he died. After the convention the general was brought home to Peekskill in a special car and taken to his residence, where he remained hovering between life and death.

Yesterday the general gradually grew worse and at half past 4 o'clock he began to sink, dying three hours afterward. He passed away peacefully. He was conscious to the last.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

Gen. Husted was born at Bedford, Westchester county, New York, on October 13, 1833. He graduated from Yale college in 1854, one of his schoolmates being Dr. Chauncey M. Depew. He was admitted to the bar in 1857. He has held many public offices and has had the longest legislative service of any man in the history of the state—namely, eighteen years. He also had the distinction of having been speaker of the house of representative more times than any other man, having been speaker six times.

For over thirty years Gen. Husted had been in active political life. He became a member of the republican party in 1859 and attended its national conventions as a delegate in 1876, 1880, 1884 and 1892. He had also taken an active interest in the National guard of the state, being a member of the organization and serving as judge advocate of the Seventieth brigade and major-general of the Fifth division.

He was a distinguished member of the Masonic fraternity and once held the position of grand master of that body. He was also a thirty-third degree man.

The Work of the King's Daughters.

New York Letter.

Let me prophesy. If cholera gains a foot-hold on this continent one body of Christian workers will immortalize itself. Sustained by a sublime faith which is more than an evidence of things not seen, the King's Daughters will court death and pestilence for sweet charity's sake. Their inspiring motto is, "In His Name," and already they are beginning to volunteer. They will be a noble sacrifice to offer up to the Moloch Pestilence, and well may their countrymen tremble with prescient forebodings, for in city and in town, in village and in rural community they are the flower of American young womanhood. Nurses will be needed and nurses will not be wanting; nurses will die, will die by the score, and comely bodies will be reduced to ashes as soon as the breath of life leaves them—on sanitary grounds; but the smoke which tells of their annihilation will ascend a sweeter incense to heaven than ever wafted from any altar. And other nurses will take the places of those who die heroically, nay with less trepidation than the flower of confederate soldiery pressed forward to fill gaps in Pickett's decimated ranks in that awful charge at Gettysburg. To face an enemy that can not be combated with physical force is the very sublimation of heroism. What I have said is not speculative if it is anticipatory. The fact is assured. It is in the air as well as on many tongues that they stand ready to answer the first call.

In 1878 I stood on the depot platform at Little Rock and saw a train load of volunteer nurses depart for Memphis, where the yellow scourge was holding a carnival of death. I never saw a more cheerful body of men and women. A little more than one-half of them lived to see the first white frost. And yet when the fever broke out in 1879 volunteers were not wanting. We are an energetic, money-getting people, and at times a thoughtless people, but we rise to great occasions quicker than any other people in the world.

A PIONEER GONE.

Death of An Old and Respected Citizen.

The readers of the DEMOCRAT will be pained to learn of the death of Major A. J. Elliott, which occurred on Sunday.

The deceased was born in old Fort Hempstead, in Howard county, in 1819, when Central Missouri was a wilderness. Major Elliott's father and mother were among the pioneers who first braved the savage beasts and savage red men of the forest in Howard county, and his father and older brothers fought more than one battle in defense of their homes.

Major Elliott was raised among the stirring scenes of that day and became a man prominent in the community and known far and wide for good judgment, honor and integrity—the qualities that alone in that day could win respect and confidence.

In 1849 he "crossed the plains" to California and was chosen to command the expedition. Later he started to the states by vessel and reached home after a long and tedious voyage during which the vessel was driven from her course, provisions ran low and the passengers were put upon quarter rations. The passengers lost confidence in the captain of the vessel, deposed him from authority over them and elected Major Elliott in his place. Judge Levens, of this city, was among the passengers and was dangerously sick, but Major Elliott nursed him and saw him safely home.

Major Elliott leaves seven children, two sons, J. B. and R. T. Elliott, and five daughters, Mrs. J. J. Lamm, Mrs. F. B. Breton, Mrs. Boyer, of Monroe county, Mrs. Hoffman, of Fresno, Cal., and Mrs. McCulloch, of Portland, Oregon; thirty-six grand-children and three great-grand-children.

He was the organizer of the old settlers' association of Pettis and adjoining counties.

The funeral will be held from the Christian church in this city tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

News About Different Roads, Employers and Employees.

T. H. Finn, a prominent railroad man from Moberly, made the DEMOCRAT a pleasant call this morning and said he always liked a good paper, so he guessed he wanted it sent to him for a year.

C. O. Shepherd, general freight agent of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe, at Galveston was in town to-day.

A great deal has been said and written about the passenger department of the M., K. & T. railway and the successor to Mr. Graham. It appears to be settled now that Mr. A. Faulkner, of Houston, Texas, for a number of years G. P. A. of the H. & T. C. R., becomes G. P. & T. A. of the entire M., K. & T. railway with headquarters in St. Louis. Mr. E. B. Parker will be assistant passenger agent in charge of the advertising department with headquarters in St. Louis. C. P. Rector, G. T. A. for Kansas and the Indian Territory, with headquarters in Parsons; H. P. Hughes, general passenger and ticket agent for Texas with headquarters at Denison. The above changes, it is said, will take effect October 1st.

A MANLY LETTER.

A Republican Railroad Man Defends Mr. Hart.

To the Editor of the DEMOCRAT.

Dear Sir:—I am a reader of your paper; also the Gazette. I may also say that I am a republican and always have been. I claim the right to express my political convictions. I concede the same right to one who differs with me on this subject; hence it follows that I feel called upon to criticize and condemn those who deny this right and privilege to a citizen.

I refer to the unkind, as well as unfair, treatment of Col. Hart by the Gazette, which claims he is not identified with the railroad men, and is a self-constituted boss. I admit he is not now in railway service, and probably never will be, but I do claim that there is not a man in Missouri who is more clearly identified with us than he, and not one in the service who has done more valuable services in the interest of railway employees. We know this and would be basely ungrateful if we did not appreciate it.

We have given Mr. Hart our cheerful support when he has needed it, no because of our sympathy alone, (as the Gazette claims), but because we knew him competent and worthy, and I don't think there are any of us who would not do so again if an opportunity presented itself. He is now doing the only thing an honorable man could do; that is, working for the party of which he is a member. If a few republicans did at some time vote for him, it seems from what we read that it was expected by some that his disappointment at the defeat of his friend Dalton would give him a protracted spell of the suiks, but they did not know him as we do.

In conclusion I want to say that I have talked with many railroad men, as well as those who are not, in the past few days, and I find many indeed who are of the same opinion as myself.

Yours truly,
 REPUBLICAN RAILROAD MAN.

Should Have a Big Majority.

From the Windsor Review.

Having failed utterly in its attempts to find some flaw in the personal or official record of Mike Doherty, our sprightly neighbor, the Sedalia Gazette, offers the following as a convincing argument why he should not be re-elected collector of Pettis county:

"He is already president of a flourishing bank and in addition is one of the largest cattle raisers in this section of the state. Does he want the earth? Let him return to his farm, where he can live in luxury for the remainder of his days without doing so much as a day's work if he cares to."

The fact that Mr. Doherty is a successful farmer and business man will hardly be accepted by the people of Pettis county as sufficient reason for retiring him from the responsible position he has so ably filled for the past two years. He is a man of tried capacity and wide experience, and should be re-elected by a largely increased majority.

The idea that a man must be incompetent to manage his own business successfully before he is fit to be trusted with the transaction of official duties is a theory that belongs to the past days of rankest mossbackism.

All bids received shall be referred to the city council, and the council may let the contract of said grading to the lowest and best bidder provided that the amount bid shall not exceed the engineer's estimate.

The council reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Bids shall state bid per cubic yard, according to the provisions of this ordinance. Each proposal or bid shall be accompanied with a certified check on some Sedalia bank for the sum of $25.00, or that amount in good and lawful money of the United States, which is to be forfeited and paid to the city of Sedalia in case the party to whom the contract may be awarded shall fail or refuse to enter into contract, and give bond as hereinafter required, within ten days.

section 3. After the completion of said work by the contractor the city engineer shall measure and calculate the total cost of the grading of the portion of said street hereby provided to be graded, including the squares and areas formed by the crossings of intersecting streets, and shall also ascertain the number of front feet owned by each property owner, and the proportion of the number of feet of each lot or parcel of ground fronting or abutting on said portion of said street, to the whole number of feet on the portion of the street graded under this ordinance and the said contract; and he shall return such calculation, in writing, to the city clerk, and it shall be the duty of the city clerk, on receipt of such calculation, and upon approval by the city council of the work done, to assess for each block separately upon all lots and pieces of ground on either side of said street the distance so improved in the name of the owner, so improved by the whole cost or sum due for such work of grading, which each lot may bear to the whole number of feet abutting on the portion of said street so graded, including all squares and areas formed by the crossings of intersecting streets.

section 4. The whole amount of the cost of the grading provided for herein, including the squares and areas formed by the crossings of intersecting streets is hereby levied and assessed as a special tax against and upon all of the abutting property on both sides of said seventh street from the west line of Grand avenue to the east line of Park avenue.

When the city clerk shall have ascertained the cost thereof among the abutting lots and parcels of ground and the owners thereof, as provided by section 3 of this ordinance, he shall issue special tax bills duly signed by the mayor and attested by the city clerk and the seal of the said city, for the cost of said grading.

Said special tax bills shall refer to this ordinance in appropriate terms, recite the kind of work done and material furnished, if any, describe the lot or piece of ground upon which the tax lien rests, and the name of the owner thereof, the amount for which each tract of ground is liable, and the name of the contractor, and such other recitals as may be deemed necessary, and the contractor shall receive against the same in full for all claims against the said city for said work of grading.
